America's Dream Chamber Artists (ADCA) is America's newest and most exciting chamber music society. By bringing about a resurgence of the great chamber music masterworks with renewed and energized freedom and expression, ADCA is challenging tradition by changing the face of chamber music, making it approachable and enjoyable to all audiences. ADCA has performed in Carnegie Hall's Weill Recital Hall and Peter Norton Symphony Space in New York, has been featured in Chamber Music and Muso magazines, and has appeared on WQXR and Voice of America. ADCA has established a groundbreaking collaboration between classical music, photography, and elite fashion, creating a modern and trendy visual image. Its Artist Members are an elite group of the country's most superb, young musicians- including numerous past winners of the Avery Fisher Career Grant and international solo and chamber music competitions. They have performed at the Marlboro, Tanglewood, Aspen, Pacific, La Jolla, Santa Fe, Lucerne, and Verbier festivals, among others, and are graduates of the country's top conservatories, including The Juilliard School and The Curtis Institute of Music.
